YOU vs COMPETITOR (q-commerce private labels + regional batter brands)

YOU — iD Fresh Food	COMPETITOR — q-commerce private labels + regional batter brands
1 live Google creative - Blink Digital India Pvt Ltd - FY25: INR 681.4 Cr revenue, INR 25.87 Cr PAT - INR 1,300 Cr from Apax (Jan 2026); IPO targeted ~Oct 2027 - Plant: Attibele, Anekal Taluk, Bengaluru 562107	- Quick-commerce private-label batter: price + 10-minute delivery + app search - Regional fresh-batter brands: local price and freshness - Homemade batter: free, trusted, time-consuming

3 LEAKS WE FOUND (live-verified)

LEAK 1: Own-category searches are being harvested by others With one live ad, 'idli batter home delivery', 'malabar parota online' and 'preservative-free batter' are answered by quick-commerce and smaller D2C brands - before an IPO, that is a demand-durability gap, not just a media gap.
LEAK 2: A weekly-habit category with no habit engine Batter is bought weekly by the same household. There is no subscribe-and-save flow, no WhatsApp reminder and no freshness-seal mechanic to lock in repeats.
LEAK 3: Retail, quick-commerce and D2C fight as one funnel Three buyers with three different jobs - 'find near me', 'add to app basket', 'subscribe and save' - are served by one generic path.

3 QUICK WINS (14-DAY ROADMAP) → FIX LEAKS + LOWER CPA

DAY 1-5: Build the search moat Full-funnel Google search across brand, category and competitor terms with three landing paths: nearest store, quick-commerce, subscribe-and-save - measured per SKU family.
DAY 6-10: Launch subscribe-and-save Weekly bundles with a 10-15% incentive, WhatsApp reminders and a freshness guarantee, retargeting every D2C buyer into it. Predictable revenue before the IPO window.
DAY 11-14: Turn the process into creative A '48-hour batter' film, plant-to-kitchen traceability and customer 'no preservatives' proof - the assets that defend a premium against private label.
