EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

iD Fresh Food closed FY25 at INR 681.4 Cr revenue with INR 25.87 Cr PAT and took INR 1,300 Cr from Apax in Jan 2026, with an IPO targeted around Oct 2027. That is a company that must show predictable, efficient demand. Yet Google Ads Transparency shows exactly one live creative for idfreshfood.com, and it runs under Blink Digital India Pvt Ltd - i.e. the brand's Google presence is essentially a single agency-run ad. Every search for 'idli batter near me', 'malabar parota', 'preservative-free batter' is being answered by aggregators and competitors instead.

1. AD INTELLIGENCE

Google Ads (verified)	1 live creative; advertiser of record Blink Digital India Pvt Ltd (agency-run).
Business momentum	FY25 revenue INR 681.4 Cr, PAT INR 25.87 Cr; INR 1,300 Cr investment from Apax (Jan 2026); IPO targeted ~Oct 2027.
Distribution	Preservative-free batter and ready-to-cook range across retail + quick-commerce in India and export markets; Bengaluru HQ with the flagship plant at Attibele, Anekal Taluk (562107).
Contact path on site	customercare@idfreshfood.com / +91 9739910521.
Category context	Fresh batter is a high-frequency, habit-driven category: the same household buys weekly. That makes paid search + retargeting unusually profitable - and makes the single-ad footprint a glaring gap.

2-5. CREATIVE / COPY / CRO / TRACKING SCORES

Creative Variety		2/10
UGC & Social Proof		4/10
Copy & Hook Strength		5/10
Landing Page CRO		5/10
Tracking & CAPI		5/10
Retargeting Depth		3/10

- Brand demand is being harvested by others: with one live ad, searches for your own category - 'idli batter home delivery', 'malabar parota online', 'preservative free batter' - are won by quick-commerce and smaller D2C brands. Before an IPO, that gap is a valuation issue, not just a marketing issue.

- Retail + quick-commerce + D2C are three different funnels: in-store buyers need 'find near me' and offers; quick-commerce buyers need brand reinforcement; D2C buyers need subscription and freshness proof. One ad cannot serve all three.

- Habit category, no habit engine: batter is bought weekly. A subscribe-and-save flow with WhatsApp reminders is the most profitable mechanic available - and it does not depend on new customers.

- IPO-readiness lens: investors look at channel mix and demand durability. Owned D2C recurring revenue (subscriptions) is the most valuable line you can add before Oct 2027 - and paid media is the cheapest way to build it.

6. COMPETITOR BENCHMARK

Quick-commerce private-label batter	Price + 10-minute delivery + app search dominance.	Own brand search and quality story; make 'preservative-free' the visible differentiator.
Regional fresh-batter brands	Local price and freshness.	National consistency + export-grade proof at scale.

Homemade batter	Free, trusted.	Win on time saved + zero preservatives, with transparent ingredient proof.

7. 3 QUICK WINS (Implement in 7 Days)

WIN 1 - Build the search moat

Launch full-funnel Google search across brand, category and competitor terms ('idli batter', 'dosa batter home delivery', 'malabar parota online', 'batter without preservatives') with geo-split landing pages: nearest store / quick-commerce / subscribe-and-save.

WIN 2 - Subscription engine

Weekly batter is a subscription category. Build subscribe-and-save with a 10-15% incentive, WhatsApp reminders, and a freshness guarantee - then retarget every D2C buyer into it.

WIN 3 - Freshness proof at scale

Turn the preservative-free, cold-chain process into ad creative: a '48-hour batter' film, plant-to-kitchen traceability, and customer 'no preservatives' proof - the assets that justify a premium over private label.

EXPECTED IMPACT

Metric	Current (live)	After Wins (est.)	Impact
Google presences	1 live creative	Full-funnel search + local + retargeting	Category demand captured, not lost
Recurring revenue	Not visible	Subscribe-and-save + WhatsApp	Predictable D2C revenue before IPO
Brand vs private label	Price-competed	Freshness/preservative-free proof	Premium positioning defended
Retail footfall	No local ad structure	Geo campaigns per city	Store-level demand lift
